Honda Details Proposed Vehicle GHG 'Flexibilities' While Retaining Goals

American Honda Motor Co. says regulators should extend until 2025 several flexibilities under EPA's current greenhouse gas standards for model year 2022-2025 passenger vehicles that expire after 2021, while retaining the overall emissions standards in order to preserve a national set of rules that is joined by California.

Facing Legal Hurdles, EPA's 'Secret Science' Plan Punts On Key Issues

EPA Administrator Scott Pruitt has signed a long-promised plan barring the agency's use of any information in decision-making that is not publicly available, but the proposed rule punts on a host of tricky legal and implementation issues, including statutory mandates to use the best available science and how to address confidential trade secrets and medically protected data.

EPA Urges Local Officials To Adopt Pre-Disaster Climate Adaptation Plans

EPA is urging local government officials to adopt "worst-case" climate adaptation plans to limit damage from future natural disasters, a stance that appears to be at odds with the Trump administration's general resistance to acknowledging and addressing climate change and its adverse impacts.
